

New Software for Auditors

Laubrass Inc. introduces a new software program that facilitates auditing processes. Experienced lead auditor, Michel Langlois, describes the benefits.

For 25 years Michel Langlois has been conducting a variety of audits, this year he started fresh with Laubrass' UmtAudit™ software package. Now that he has made the transition from tedious note taking and lengthy report gathering, to a superior method of automated data collection, Langlois promises that he will "never go back."

"Using this innovative tool alleviates so much extra work, especially for the lead auditor. It is a tool that helps me to do a better audit," says Langlois.

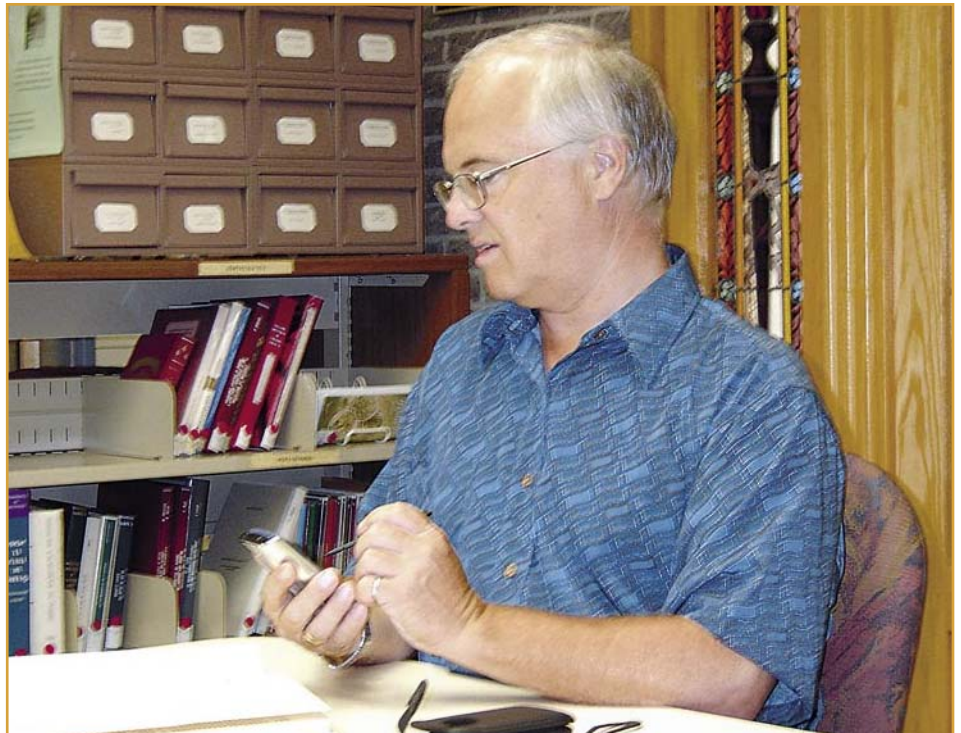

The Problem:

Performing an audit is a complex process which requires planning and organizing. This can be a time consuming and frustrating exercise. Common tasks include: the need to write and re-write similar observations, dealing with the piles of paperwork involved in data collecting, and finally organizing the audit report with appropriate pictures and observations can be a lengthy ordeal.

Langlois explains, "What is most frustrating for auditors is that we often spend a lot of overtime compiling our observations into reports. Now, my time is used more effectively because I don't have to sort through all the documents nor make sense of scribbled notes."

The Solution: Go Paperless

In order to meet the expectations of auditors, Laubrass' founder and president, Charles Brassard, sought out experienced auditors, including Langlois, to direct the development of a product that will solve auditing headaches.

The end result is a new software program that runs on handheld computers to easily perform PAPER FREE AUDITS.

Using UmtAudit™, customized protocols and audit processes can be uploaded onto a PDA, you can even include images to better identify the assessment needs, which minimizes your training times. Also, using automated predefined answers, or free hand notes, you can quickly record your assessments with greater accuracy. Furthermore, it is possible to directly insert evidential photographs to your assessments using your PDA.

Once the audit process is complete, so is your report, because UmtAudit™ automates instant reports on your PC.

"Now I can easily hand in my reports at the close of an audit. The most advantageous feature for me is that with UmtAudit™ the post audit stage is drastically reduced"

– Michel Langlois.

The Result:

This new software package, UmtAudit™, has proven to be an effective and desirable tool to ease any kind of custom assessment. Eliminating the paperwork means that you save time and money.
